

First wall impact redirects rotational energy into translation while dissipating net energy

